

ROSTI GROUP AB ACQUIRES PLASTIC COMPONENTS, INC.

Rosti Group AB (“Rosti” or the “Group”) has acquired Plastic Components, Inc. (“PCI”), a US-based injection moulding company. The acquisition significantly strengthens Rosti’s market position across the United States, making the Group a truly global partner for its customers.

Founded over 75 years ago, Rosti is a global plastic injection moulding company and contract manufacturer serving some of the world’s leading manufacturers in the packaging, consumer appliances, business machines, medical and automotive sectors. Headquartered in Sweden, Rosti has state-of-the art production facilities strategically located across Europe and Asia. Through the acquisition of PCI, Rosti is establishing a global production footprint to better serve both existing and new customers.

“M&A is an important part of Rosti’s growth strategy, and we continue to look for high-quality companies that can strategically enhance our business. PCI has extensive know-how in engineering and process technology and is a well-managed company that is a great fit with Rosti” Jonas Persson, CEO of Rosti.

Founded in 1989, PCI delivers “mission critical” engineered thermoplastic components for a variety of market applications, including flow control, consumer, pool & aquatics, automotive technology, small engine, and medical. Headquartered in Germantown, WI, with additional locations in Cary, NC and Clearfield, UT, PCI boasts a unique nationwide presence and has critical scale with longstanding, strategic relationships throughout a diverse customer base. Derrill Rice, President and CEO of PCI, will continue to lead PCI’s strong existing management team.

“As the president of PCI, an industrial injection moulder, I am thrilled to partner with Rosti who for over 75 years have also been injection moulding. Owned by Nordstjernan, an ethical company with financial strength, this acquisition is part of their long-term investment strategy. The cultural fit and vision that both companies share will help us to better serve our customers. By combining two highly skilled workforces this will help us to expand our capabilities on a global scale.” Derrill Rice, President and CEO PCI.

“This acquisition not only joins together two strong technology-forward manufacturing teams, allied in their continuing pursuit of excellence and mentality towards world class manufacturing and scientific moulding, but it also supports our relationships with existing customers while creating additional opportunities for growth and expansion. PCI aligns well with Rosti strategically and culturally, and together we are excited to offer customers a superior technical service.” Jonas Persson, CEO of Rosti.
